

Every student has the potential to be a successful individual and needs to only discover his/her true self to get there.

To choose a right career path, evaluation and proper understanding of both Cognitive and Non-Cognitive skills are important.

Knowing precisely what an individual likes, what their abilities are and what traits define their personality are the 3 key aspects that define a wise career decision.

All this is done through the Pathfinder+, Eduquity's proprietary online career assessment tool. Pathfinder+ enhances and give insights into different career options around the world.

Combined with counseling session conducted by professional psychologists, it tells every student what his interests, abilities and personality are, and putting it together, arrives at an individualized career report.

The Pathfinder+ is an online test, in English. It is applicable for students who have completed their graduation and are troubled about which career or employment they should take up as well as for those who are employed and would like a career change.

It assesses

Demographic details, career clusters preferred, work values, as well as Interests, Abilities and Personality

- "Interest" is defined as something that we are passionate about. Hence, the Interest Inventory is designed to help understand one's deepest passions when it comes to the world of work.

- "Ability" is what a person can do now. The Eduquity Ability Inventory measures eight areas. They are:

- "Personality" is basically who we are, our characteristics and our behavior. Eighteen personality traits are measured.

- Consistency and social desirability indices are also obtained.

GOING BEYOND

The Pathfinder+ report is self-explanatory.
It is Interest +Ability +Personality =Right Career Path.

An individual counseling session is also held, where the report is explained and doubts cleared.
